Acupuncture cures (nearly) always

In my practice I apply acupuncture as preventive treatment as well as for chronic diseases. An earlier diagnosis by a veterinary is helpful and eligible.

- Acupuncture for chronic diseases
Detecting and dissolving of local blockades due to chronic diseases – from arthritis to teeth grinding.
- Acupuncture as preventive measure
Preventive control of possible blockade sources in the healthy horse (recommendation: once to twice per year).

Additional: energetic testing for general problems

For detection of further functional blockades for instance of the back, the joints, the organs; if necessary, for detection of the necessity for consultation of other experts (such as a traditional veterinary, dentist, saddler, blacksmith, osteopath, chiropractor).

Note: Due to the structure of my practice I cannot offer acute medicine treatment.

Interesting facts

- In 95% of the cases, acupuncture will help to dissolve pain and functional blockades in a horse permanently.
- Riding problems and behavioral defects, head shaker, laminitis (founder), COPD and interference fields due to scars – acupuncture can help.
- Functional blockades can for instance be based on wrong feeding, physical overstrain, physical or psychical injuries, or even a problematic relationship between owner and animal.
- Acupuncture heals according to the multi layer principle. Typically one to four treatments* are necessary in order to lead the animal to a stable health condition.*
- A treatment is not repeated*, since a blockade, which has been causally dissolved, remains permanently dissolved.
- Preventive acupuncture saves money, since a preventively treated horse is happier, more composed, relaxed and robust, this means healthier in general.

* These statements are based on my own observations and my personal experience in acupuncture during long years.

Your veterinary in the north for horse's acupuncture

Dear equestrian friends, as a veterinary I have more than 20 years of successful professional practice. Very early I have recognized acupuncture as an effective alternative respective as a supplement to treatment. This applies to the therapy of chronic diseases as well as to preventive purposes.

Ever since the beginning I have accomplished innovative development. Acupuncture has proven to be a lasting therapy form, for diseases of the hooves, head shakers, general problems of riding or behavioural disorders.

In the following I have compiled details about acupuncture of horses, my therapy forms and further practical tips.

I would highly appreciate to help you and your four-legged friends.

Yours faithfully

Christian Torp

Approach

Precise acupuncture

Since many years I am very successful in the field of horse's acupuncture and have developed my own method of treatment. I have come to the following fascinating conclusion: acupuncture also works without needles* (sometimes even better).

Therapy with one needle or mental puncture

- Acupuncture with one needle or by sheer concentration
- Therapy of one single point during a session
- Both procedures show the same effect*

Enhanced mental puncture

Synonym: acupuncture-oriented energy therapy

- Enhanced therapy spectrum: points where no needles can be placed, can also be treated*
- Gentle therapy of functional disorders of joints, organs and body areas

Treatment

Acupuncture – gentle and comprehensible

Point-to-point to a diagnosis

For a diagnosis I examine approximately 100 acupuncture points per body side (ear, mandible, complete body) for soreness and pain. This sounds extensive, but can be done rather quickly.

Elaborate therapy scheme

As a second step, following an elaborate diagnosis-therapy scheme. In most cases I treat a single therapy point, this dissolves all determined existing energy blockades for the moment.

Acupuncture – it works

Finally I demonstrate the effect: in a healthy horse the so-called "Chi" is flowing. I demonstrate this by pressing the diagnostic acupuncture points before and after the treatment; thus the horse's owner can comprehensibly see and control the difference.

In addition the animal often shows definite relaxation reactions (deep breathing, smacking, yawning, lowering of the head etc.).
